...The original 'Karee Shows' preceded Magic Lanterns & pre-cinema Peep Shows - they consisted of a wooden box backlit by mirrors or candles with deep holes or a magnifying lens at the front. They were a pre-tv window on the world, usually showing intriguingly distorted perspective - and sometimes movable - views of exotic buildings & fabulous scenes - hand-painted onto panels inside & onto translucent paper at the back. Travelling showmen - initially from Savoy & Lombardy - toured them thru' the 18th & early 19th centuries crying out "come see the raree...!" [saying 'rare' in a strong Italian accent] "...and you shall see what you shall see..."

"...oh raree show, pretty show, oh who'll see me fine show..."
